BECKWITH'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS have been most successfully employed in almost every variety of functional disorder of the stomach, bowels, liver, and spleen; such as heartburn, acid cruetations, nausea, headache, pain and distension of the stomach and bowels, incipient diarrhea, colici, jaundice, flatulency, habitual coatveness, loss of appetite, sick headache, sea-sickness, &c., &c. They are a sade and comfortable aperient for females during pregnancy and subsequent confidement; relieving sickness at the stomach, headache, heartburn and many of the incidental nervous affections. Literary men, students, and most other persons of sedentary habits, find them very convenient. Those who indulge too freely in the pleasures of the table find speedy relief from the sense of oppression and distension which follow, by taking the pills. As a dinner pill, they are invaluable. Those who are drinking mineral waters, and particularly those from southern climates, ague and fever districts, will find them a valuable adjunct. Those who are exposed to the vicissitudes of weather on voyages or journeys, can take them at all times with perfect safety. In full doses they are a highly efficacious and safe antibilious medicine. They seldom or never produce sickness at the stomach or griping.

There have been many imitations and worthless counterfeits of these pills put in circulation by unprincipled and ignorant persons—the directions, wrappers, &c., of the genuine pills so closely and accurately copied, that the closest observer could not, without a trial of their effects, distinguish between them.
